

CORPORATE QHSE POLICY

SUPREME GROUP

INTEGRATED MANAGEMENT SYSTEMS CORPORATE QHSE POLICY

Supreme Group (and all subsidiaries) delivers excellence in our products, services and supply chain solutions that ensure customer value and contribute to their success. In order to maintain this, the Group is committed to:

- Provide a QHSE framework for the coordinated and integrated planning, implementation and review of the commitments and objectives set out in the Group's individual Policies for Quality, Health and Safety, Environmental, including Food Safety issues where applicable.
- Ensure that all relevant legal and contractual requirements as well as Group Corporate Governance Standard requirements for integrated certification to ISO 9001; OHSAS 18001 and ISO 14001 are met, including that for ISO 22000 where implemented.
- Streamline IMS documentation and the duplication of efforts and resources required to satisfy identified relevant common management systems standard elements, such as auditing, management review meetings, document and record control, awareness and training among others.

The Group is engaged in the achievement of these objectives with our shareholders, our customers, our employees and the society through the continual improvement of our IMS and by clearly identifying, controlling, monitoring and measuring the potential risk to our business that will allow us to maintain the leadership in our business sector.

Supreme Group (and all subsidiaries) shall ensure that this IMS Policy is understood together with the individual Quality, HSE, Food Safety and Food Defense Policies by all employees, and made available to all interested stakeholders upon request.

Theo Reichert
Supreme Group Chief Executive Officer